BY-ELECTION SATURDAY

City Voters To Elect Mayor, One Alderman

Pentiction voters go to the polls tomorrow to elect a mayor and one alderman.

For mayor there are four candidates to choose from, all of them with previous council experience. Three contestants are vying for the aldermanic seat.

TRANSPORTATION TO POLL AVAILABLE

Free transportation to the poll in Pentiction's civic by-election Saturday will be available from local Jaycees as part of their "Get Out The Vote" campaign.

The junior chamber has arranged a car pool consisting of members' cars. Anyone wishing transportation to vote can phone 5685 any time from 9 a.m. to the close of the poll at 8 p.m.

Sea Cadet Corps Capture National Swimming Honors

The local Sea Cadet Corps "Revenge" has won nation-wide honors.

The corps today was declared the 1956 winner of the national swimming competition conducted amid all corps throughout Canada.

In the announcement released this afternoon by the National Sea Cadet committee in Toronto, comment was made on the "wonderful" marks of the Pentiction cadets. They scored 593 out of a possible 600.

"This is certainly wonderful news," says Frank Colclough, head of the Pentiction branch of the Navy League of Canada.

Lieut. Commander Wally Mattock has another word to add. "We have not had to teach one single boy how to swim."

The value of the Rotary-Red Cross annual swim classes is emphasized in this connection.

CONGRESS OPENS MONDAY

For the first time in the history of the Co-operative Union of Canada, the annual congress will be held on April 10, 11 and 12 in Pentiction. Congress headquarters will be located in the Prince Charles Hotel. Preceded April 8 and 9 by the 13th annual conference of the B.C. Co-operative Union, the Canada-wide congress features outstanding speakers.

Effective next Monday, April 8, the postal director for this district announced in a letter to the secretary, Lorne Perry, that West Summerland will be a way office on the Vernon Motor Vehicle-Pentiction airport route.

This will mean that letters posted at West Summerland will go to the coast much faster than they have been going in the past.

Postal Services To Coast Are Improved

SUMMERLAND — Summerland Board of Trade's efforts to improve postal service between here and the coast have brought results.

Effective next Monday, April 8, the postal director for this district announced in a letter to the secretary, Lorne Perry, that West Summerland will be a way office on the Vernon Motor Vehicle-Pentiction airport route.

This will mean that letters posted at West Summerland will go to the coast much faster than they have been going in the past.

Recommend Salary Increases For City Hospital Nursing Staff

An across-the-board salary increase for the nurses employed by the Pentiction General Hospital has been recommended by a conciliation board, The Herald learned today.

The recommendations, which are not binding, call for salary increases ranging from $14 a month to $17 a month for supervisors, head nurses, registered nurses and non-registered nurses.

The recommendation of the conciliation board will be discussed April 18 at the regular meeting of the hospital board.

Members of the conciliation board, which unanimously recommended the increases, were R. J. S. Mohr, chairman, of Vancouver; E. Dewdney of Pentiction, the employer's nominee, and A. D. C. Washington of Pentiction, the employees' nominee.

Candidates Charge Waste Of Funds, Untruths In Campaign

Charges of a "colossal waste of city funds" and "a great deal of untruth in this campaign" were hurled by Pentiction civic election candidates Thursday night at a public meeting in the high school auditorium arranged by Charles E. Oliver, one of the four mayoralty contestants.

The audience of some 450 persons, described by Chairman S. Kenyon as "the largest gathering of this kind in here in years," heard the candidates expound their election platforms and some take issue with statements of other speakers.

The candidates appeared as soon as they were able to leave the dinner meeting arranged for them by the board of trade and junior chamber of commerce. Mayoralty contestant E. A. Titchmarsh did not appear.

Mr. Oliver charged the city administration with "a colossal waste of public funds," citing as examples "over $400,000" spent on Pentiction Creek flood control and a $175,000 flood improvement project which is said to undercut city streets and result in freezing of water mains.

"The public doesn't look behind what is happening carefully enough," he declared. He said the Skaha lake area could have been supplied with water by now from Okanagan lake at a cost of around $60,000.

"Instead council went off into some glorified pumping scheme," he said.

Repairs to present dams on the creeks supplying the city with domestic and irrigation water "could be economically and permanently effected with interlocking steel sheet piling in the core wall."

Asked whether he would be in favor of Pentiction going in jointly with Naramata in construction of a dam above Todd intake for domestic and irrigation purposes, Mr. Oliver said he was.

J. D. Southworth, declaring that a great deal of untruth had been circulated about the water situation, said there was no real shortage of water as he was originally "led to believe." The pumps on Okanagan lake were used only 83 days last summer of which both pumps were used on only 38 days.

Asked whether present mains are large enough to take an increased volume of water from Okanagan lake, he said he was assured by city waterworks personnel that they are, even though the Associated Engineers report indicates they might not be.

Mrs. MacCleave, declaring that differences of opinion are a healthy condition in a democracy, suggested "we should hold our fire" on the water issue until further details have been obtained from Associated Engineers on the proposed Skaha lake pumping plan.

She said, however, that she has a distrust of dams because Pentiction dam No. 2 was condemned in the 1920's while still completely ignored. Plans for diversion of Pentiction creek into Ellis creek, approved by both senior governments as a flood control measure, were narrowly defeated in a bylaw vote.

"Thus we have rejected the advice of hydraulic engineers in the past to our later sorrow," she declared.

P. F. Erault, A. C. Kendrick and J. W. Johnson, restated their election platform. Mr. Johnson siding in favor of a gravity water system and meeting any water shortages by moving the intakes higher up the creeks for increased pressure.

Fire Destroys Home In West Bench Area

Fire completely destroyed the house of Alfred H. Hunt on the West Bench Wednesday night, providing a spectacle of flames which was seen from most parts of the city.

No one was injured.

The fire started shortly before 9 p.m. in the kitchen and spread quickly through the one-storey house and into newly-built rooms in the basement.

Within an hour the structure was completely gutted, leaving a charred, smoking ruin. Practically all contents were lost. The house, covered by insurance, was built only two years ago.

Occupants of the house at the time, Mrs. Hunt and her two sleeping children, escaped without injury. Mr. Hunt was away on a business matter at his meat store, 288 Main street.

A frantic phone call from his wife brought him hurrying home in time to rescue one of his children from the flaming house.

The other child had been carried to safety through a broken window by Mrs. Hunt.

Two city fire trucks answered the call at 8:55 p.m. But firemen had little chance against flames which were leaping 20 feet high, when the trucks arrived.

The fire began when a panful of fat, which Mrs. Hunt was rendering down, caught fire over the kitchen stove. To smother the flames, she wrapped a blanket around the blazing pan.

At this point Mrs. Hunt believed she had the situation under control.

New Canadians Get Citizenship Certificates

In an impressive ceremony at Pentiction courthouse Wednesday afternoon 27 persons swore oaths of allegiance to Canada and received certificates entitling them to full citizenship in Canada, the country of their adoption.

The ceremony was the largest of its kind yet held in Pentiction. The new Canadians — men and women of mixed ages — collectively took their oaths before Judge M. M. Colquhoun, and in doing so renounced all allegiance to their countries of origin.

It was the final step for these persons, originally from many different countries, who had to wait at least five years before they could assume the full stature of Canadian citizenship.

A touch of color was added to the occasion, with the attendance of an RCMP constable in full dress uniform.

In his address to the new citizens, Judge Colquhoun pointed out that the policeman in this country is to be looked on as a friend, and not held in the same regard as his counterpart in certain countries which were now being forsaken.

On behalf of the IOOE, Mrs. Evelyn McElroy presented, individually, special certificates to commemorate the occasion.

In an address of welcome, R. B. Cox, president of the Canadian club, reminded his listeners that they were now just as much Canadians, with the same privileges and the same responsibilities, as those, such as himself, who were born in this country.

Inscribed, bibles were presented to each new citizen by clerk of the court E. L. Millington, on behalf of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Following the ceremony, the new Canadians were given tea by the IOOE at the Valley hotel.

Those who received certificates of citizenship were: Stefan Typuslak, Ruth Typuslak, Ferdinand H. Brandt, Aleida M. Brink, Dick Jan Brink, Ydla Siewert, Johanna E. Siewert, Adam Baumann, Tadeusz Sala, Barbara Sala, Hendrick A. Abelling, Wilma M. Hirsch, Winifred J. Riester, Frank Sellinger, Siegfried Neumann, Josef Kukuska, Fromhold H. Amacker, Gisela H. Mundel, Hans Erich Mundel, Hildegard A. Lobsinger, Leo Helmut Baron Van Huhn, Margarete Ida Von Hahn, Walter van Dyck, Anna Molnar, Katharina Columbus, Gustav H. Columbus, Karl H. Gengenback.

Joseph M. Girard was unable to appear and will receive his certificate later.

MONTREAL (BUP) — Edward A. Vengroff, accused of murdering his estranged wife hanged himself today.

Fruit Prospects Appear Good Says Local Horticulturist

Although it is too early to make any predictions, the possibility of an increase in the fruit crop, with the exception of cherries, in this area is foreseen by M. P. D. Trumpour, district horticulturist.

Mr. Trumpour was quick to point out, however, that at this early date any estimate is subject to a great many "buts and ifs."

"Our cherries were hard hit by the severe frost we experienced in the winter of 1955-56," he said, "and they never have fully recovered."

While other fruits had also suffered from the frost, they were not so badly damaged as the cherry trees, he said.

"The average yield of apples for this district over the past few years was about 650,000 boxes," he said, "and last year it dropped to under 400,000 boxes."

"Last year's peach crop also showed a drastic drop. There were only 115,000 boxes grown as compared to the average of about 175,000 boxes."

Mr. Trumpour emphasized that while conditions for a good crop are favorable now, the picture could change in a very short time.

"The greatest dangers we have to face, as every grower well knows, are the possibility of spring frost and poor weather at pollination time," he added.

MAHE, Seychelles Is. (UP) — Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus ends a 13-month exile today and leaves by ship for Africa on the first leg of a journey to Europe. He celebrated by walking up a mountain for some sightseeing and exercise this morning.

Water Supply Arguments Spark Election Meeting

Pentiction Girl Wins Speaking Competition

A Pentiction girl Edith Morgan won out over two other girls in the IOOF United Nations Youth Pilgrimage speaking contest in the high school cafeteria Thursday night and will be rewarded with a trip to New York and United Nations headquarters this summer.

The local girl, a Pentiction high school student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Morgan, won the praise of the three outside judges for having an orderly presentation to her 15-minute speech.

She will join other winners from elsewhere in the province and the states of Washington and Oregon on a month-long bus trip starting in July, sponsored and conducted by the IOOF, to the United Nations.

Her two competitors were Vera Clemens of Oliver, judged second, and Dorothy Carston of Summerland. All three spoke on the same topic, "The U.N. and the Youth of Today."

In her winning speech, Edith Morgan pointed out that the youth of Canada has a perfect chance to show their appreciation to the United Nations by welcoming with friendship the many new immigrants entering this country.

She closed her presentation effectively with a recitation of Kipling's "If."

Music Festival Group To Meet Here Tonight

With Pentiction chosen to act as host city for the Centennial year Okanagan Valley Music Festival, the stage is set for a bigger and more successful festival than the one held here in 1955 when over 3000 participated.

An organizational meeting of the Pentiction branch will be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the reading room of the Three Gables hotel to lay plans for next year's 32nd annual festival. All interested persons are asked to attend.

President P. Padberg and Mrs. Hugh Cleland will conduct the meeting.

This year's Okanagan Valley Music Festival will be held in Kelowna from the end of April through the first week in May.

Should Pentiction's expanding water needs be pumped from Skaha Lake or should they be supplied from the creeks in the hills east of the city?

This was the main issue at a civic election forum Wednesday night arranged by the Pentiction Agricultural Ratepayers' association and the city ratepayers' group, attended by close to 250 persons.

The four mayoralty candidates were evenly split on the question with Mrs. Elsie MacCleave and E. A. Titchmarsh reiterating their support of the Skaha Lake pumping scheme, and J. D. Southworth and Charles E. Oliver restating their arguments against the plan.

Of the three aldermanic candidates, only P. F. Erault took a stand declaring himself "against pumping." A. C. Kendrick said he would want the issue thoroughly investigated before coming to a decision and J. W. (Bill) Johnson did not make any reference to the issue.

Mr. Titchmarsh deplored the fact that the Skaha Lake pumping proposal had precipitated "a red hot political issue."

"It's not really an issue until council has investigated it and presented it for the people's approval in a money bylaw," he said.

Mrs. MacCleave thought a more important matter than the water controversy was the need for extension of the sewer system "very rapidly."

The candidates, introduced by Frank A. Kluck, president of the city ratepayers' association, were each given five minutes to speak. This was later revised by Agricultural Ratepayers' president Avery King, chairman of the meeting, after Mr. Oliver and some of the other candidates had exceeded their time limits.

First to speak was J. W. Johnson, who said he was making another try for election "because I have experience, lots of time and like the business." He said he would strive to have light rates lowered, if he were elected, which he said wasn't "bribery but just plain common sense." He would also strive to give the city full value for its tax dollar, he said.

Declaring he had felt for some years that city budgets have been too high, he said councils should not budget for a surplus but only for actual needs each year.

"I think Pentiction's taxes have reached their peak, consistent with keeping the businessman in business and the homeowners in homes," he said. "Any further

Candidates Weather Barrage Of Questions

Bitter remarks and sharp questions highlighted the appearance of mayoralty and aldermanic candidates at the Jaycee-Board of Trade dinner aboard the SS Sicamous last night. Most of the acrimony concerned the water problem.

Charles E. Oliver, first of the mayoralty candidates to speak, told of a two-hour visit with the late Mayor C. Oscar Matson about a week before the chief magistrate died. Mr. Oliver quoted the late mayor as saying that he "had sent a memorandum to council indicating his opposition" to a contract with Associated Engineers for a pumping plant at Skaha Lake.

J. D. Southworth said council was informed one night it had a contract with the engineering firm when the matter hadn't even been voted upon.

E. A. Titchmarsh said, in his opinion, the water issue would not come before the electors until next December and expressed regrets that it had been made an issue now.

"This city is serviced by gravity water and always will be," Mr. Titchmarsh said. "But it will need supplementing. I suggest, an independent opinion be obtained from someone outside this controversy."

Mrs. Elsie MacCleave stressed the need for sewer system extension and reiterated her wish for a civic administrator system in Pentiction.

Asked what city departments he thought were unproductive, Mr. Southworth indicated that the irrigation section is one of them. He quoted from annual statements declaring, "this city

Tomorrow's Civic Election

It's the big day tomorrow when Penticton names its new mayor.

The pre-election period has been necessarily short, but the momentum imparted by a four-way contest has reinvigorated civic politics.

Not for many years have so many searching questions been brought up about many phases of the city's administration. This is a good thing. It is the guarantor of continuing good government.

There was something heartening about the over-crowded meeting arranged by the ratepayers' associations the other night. True enough, much of what went on smacked of vaudeville. But the crowd in the main bore testimony to the fact that the community is very interested in some of the arguments that are going on and wants to learn more about the underlying situations and about the various candidates.

So whatever the outcome may be when the ballots are counted tomorrow, one good thing has already happened.

Penticton has roused itself to an altogether new interest in its civic affairs.

The mayoralty and aldermanic contest has brought this about. Hence all candidates, the winners and losers alike tomorrow, deserve a round of thanks. Without spokesmen who hold opinions about things (which is only too often the story at civic election times) the local democratic process is dead indeed.

Whimsical Economics

Penticton is accused by W. B. Hughes-Games of Kelowna, a former chairman of the Okanagan Valley Regional Library, of costing the entire valley an extra five cents per capita.

According to an item appearing in the Kelowna Courier, the fact that this city was not represented at a certain board meeting resulted in revision of the population formula for rural areas since the rural areas out-voted the organized districts.

This in turn necessitated an increase in the per capita to offset the effects of the decreased population levy.

Such reasoning is quite quixotic; but, like a mirror image, perhaps quite reasonable if you commence from the "wrong side to".

Unfortunately economics — and facts — do not substantiate the position. Either the changed population formula was correct, and therefore justified, or it wasn't. If the reduction of population level was the proper thing to do, the vote for it should have been unanimous.

On the other hand, if it wasn't justified the rural areas should not be entitled to it and a firm protest against implementing it could be made to the government.

All of which gets away from two key facts concerning library economics that no one so far seems to have mentioned.

Fact number one is that Penticton contributed a considerable and healthy library of its own, when it was coerced into the valley movement shortly after the war. Coerced is the proper word, because the rural areas and such districts as Summerland and others were all put into the one large school district. (Summerland was then in Number 15.)

The ruling was that if the majority of original school districts were "in the library" then the others had to join it willy-nilly regardless of population or other classifications.

Penticton did not then want to join the valley library being quite content with its own arrangement wherein the library users paid a small annual fee and obtained good service for it.

That service did not cost the taxpayers of this city nearly $12,000 a year. Indeed, the library ran quite efficiently for many years on a tenth of that or less.

It was only a short while before his death that Mayor C. Oscar Matson suggested Penticton could have a better library for less than it now pays to the central one. What was not mentioned was that Penticton retains the perpetual right to withdraw and in so doing claim an equal value in books to those it subscribed to the Union Library when it was nudged into it.

This position is now reversed in the case of Vernon. This is fact number two. Because the northern community is joining the library, the entire valley must buy and additional $12,000 worth of books so they will not run short.

Perhaps, in view of its contribution, Penticton should not ask for its $5,000 back — that being the value of the library taken over a decade ago. If you have loaned or paid into something, you should be able to withdraw that loan or payment when others are benefitting without making a like contribution.

All such reasoning is whimsical; but no more so than that applied to the five cent hike by the former board chairman.

Actually, library costs have zoomed up too high and have been levied too loosely for too many years.

Hence it is good news that a team of experts is to study this library along with a number of others — if they will study it with a view to realities as they exist and not in accordance with wishful thinking or a predetermined result.

If they do it properly the library — and perhaps local pocketbooks too may be better off and Penticton will not be again accused of stealing pickles from the pockets of the people of the valley.

Tarnished Virtues

Once upon a time there was a kind of stigma attached to the ne'er-do-well who lived off the generosity of his relatives. And while his neighbors would usually rally round the man who was down in his financial luck, he found it pretty hard to hold his head up if his friends had to subsidize him for long.

Today, to be sure, the stigma is hardly noticeable. Young couples feel no sense of shame because they live in subsidized housing. People with children take it for granted that their neighbors should bear part of the cost of raising their family through the baby bonus. And older folk who might revel were some neighbor to give them a handout of $46 a month which they didn't really need, don't bat an eye so long as the monthly windfall is collected from several neighbors and handed over to them by the government at Ottawa.

Canada's welfare state has certainly brought almost an economic revolution. Worth pondering, however, are the changes it has brought in some people's sense of moral values. Dignity, self-reliance and pride have become somewhat tarnished virtues.

B. C. Fruit Processors' Officials Refute Inefficiency Charges

KELOWNA — Board of directors of B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd., and the general manager, R. P. Walrod, Thursday morning refuted charges of inefficiency, incompetence and negligence made against both grower-elected officials and management of the plant.

Step-by-step, both Mr. Walrod and Processors' president, A. G. DesBrisay, dealt with charges made by M. J. dePuyffer and M. P. Casorso at the East Kelowna sitting of the MacPhee Royal Commission held Feb. 27.

After specific charges were made by the two growers, Dean MacPhee, sole commissioner enquiring into B.C.'s multi-million dollar fruit industry, ordered the special session to give Processors an opportunity to either refute or confirm the evidence.

Mr. dePuyffer charged that consumer demand for vinegar had dropped because Processors had been unable to maintain a consistent strength and that the market has now been captured by Heinz & Co.; that serious errors had been made in the processing of glaze cherries; that one quarter of the 1955 total pack of pie fillings had to be re-processed due to faulty processing because of insufficient supervision; and that the true figure of plant up-keep, equipment and maintenance and capital cost allowance were not shown on the financial statement.

Mr. Casorso, on the other hand, stated that "thousands of cases of canned goods were dumped, covered by bulldozers and never mentioned in the balance sheet" and that "old faithful" employees had been "pushed out" because they knew too much.

Both Mr. Walrod and Mr. DesBrisay submitted sworn statements on various items supporting their arguments that there had been no waste or inefficiency.

In denying the charge that thousands of cases of canned goods have been dumped, Mr. DesBrisay submitted figures which showed that the average total losses from 1954-1956 was 0.185 per cent. In 1954 it was 0.065 per cent; 1955 (excluding loganberry) 0.049 per cent and 1956, 0.086 per cent.

The charge stemmed from Mr. dePuyffer's remark that loganberry apple pie filling had to be re-processed. In 1955 the total pie filling pack was 100,443 cases, which included 19,553 cases of loganberry-apple. He admitted that an incidence of spoilage appeared in this particular pack, but that this is not unusual in the processing business. The matter is still being studied by the research department of the American Can Company and the fruit products laboratory at Summerland. At present the spoilage is thought to be associated with loganberry seeds.

"When any part of production is found to fall below these standards it is segregated and if necessary destroyed. A practice we fell to be consistent with good business," he said. "When spoilage was noted, the loganberry product was recalled from the trade."

"Final figures show that the total quantity removed during process was 1,428 cases, of which 879 were destroyed and 549 recovered for sale at discount. The total costs of reconditioning amounted to 36.9 cents per case, and if the remaining inventory is sold at current prices — which experience to date would fully support — a return of $20 per ton will have been made on the apples used and no net loss sustained by the company," said Mr. DesBrisay.

The Processors' manager said the board of directors has in the past given much credit to Mr. Walrod for the company's rapid growth and successful developments in production and marketing.

Explaining the vinegar deal, Mr. DesBrisay said an outlet for apples, vinegar has never been considered of prime importance to the business except as a means of salvage for peelings and cores from dehydration lines. The potential market, he said, is confined to the interior, and that general market acceptance appears to be limited in the fact that cider vinegar represents only ten per cent of the total volume consumed.

In 1953 a decision to discontinue manufacture of vinegar was reached because: (a) a contract was successfully negotiated with Western Vinegar to supply their Vancouver factory with cider in bulk under terms which yielded the grower a higher net return than from the previous vinegar operations; (b) obsolescence and depreciation would have required replacement of vinegar generators were production to be continued.

The witness also explained the technical operation of manufacturing glaze cherries, but denied that they turned too dark for use because they were placed in copper kettles. New methods of blanching were adopted in which cherries are handled in large tanks rather than barrels. He admitted that in 1953 they were marketed to the bakery trade as "whole and broken grades", but that prices received were higher than those prevailing on "first grade" imported cherries.

"The charge that directors purposely withheld information from the growers to protect management is considered to be an attack upon the integrity of all members of the board at that time, but is left to the commission to verify," said Mr. DesBrisay.

Actual expenditure on buildings and general plant maintenance for five factories totaled $22,941.19 whereas equipment maintenance was $20,134.22. These costs are within reason, he said.

Mr. DesBrisay quoted Summerland Experimental Farm head F. E. Atkinson as recently saying "... processors are committed to exploring new outlets for fruits and this requires more than usual changes in machines. I usually tell small operators that a processors should write off a third of the value of some of his equipment each year."

Finally he tackled Mr. Casorso over the alleged dumping of canned goods. The matter of quantity has already been clarified, he told Dean MacPhee.

"As to the method of disposal of discarded merchandise, even when dumped in a remote section on private property behind locked gates, is subject to pilferage by the public."

As a normal precaution against liability instructions were issued that all faulty merchandise should be disposed of by properly covering it, he said.

Regarding "old faithful" employees being "pushed out", which was also charged by Mr. Casorso, the witness submitted a statement made by the union which refuted this charge. Policy of management has been to place high value on good labor relations, he said.

Mr. Walrod dealt specifically with the technical aspects of manufacturing vinegar, glaze cherries, and pie fillings.

Summarizing he said "... the company's low record of loss has been a matter of pride to both management and staff. We feel it reflects the care and attention given to sound principles of plant design, operation procedures and quality control. We are, therefore, content to leave the question of competency in respect to both incidental and extraordinary losses to your study of the evidence. Management and staff are equally aware of the necessity of property maintenance of the growers investment in building and equipment."

The processing head elaborated on the history of vinegar making in the Okanagan. He said that during the years the company manufactured the product, few complaints were received. In fact most of them were that the vinegar was too strong.

Fruit by-products, he said, may fall into two categories — primary and secondary. Primary products are those which yield a net return after carrying a full direct, indirect and overhead costs.

Cider vinegar belongs in this group, he said. Initially it was hoped that it could be developed to the primary level, but limitations were discovered in delivery and marketing costs coupled with that of the consumer demand for cider vinegar itself indicated in national consumption figures. Mr. Walrod then quoted the national figures.

"B.C. Fruit Processors has never at any time sold vinegar to the H. J. Heinz Company," Mr. Walrod emphatically stated.

He went into detail on the manufacture of glaze cherries, and said the losses incurred were kept to a minimum under the circumstances and were due neither to the incompetence nor negligence on the part of the staff.

Mr. Walrod explained the procedure in the processing of pie filling, and said that a minimum of ten samples of each product are drawn from the processing line per day by the laboratory for visual and chemical examination.

CORRESPONDENCE

ELLIS MEMORIAL

Editor, the Herald, Sir: I have been reading quite a lot in the Penticton Herald as to a suitable memorial for the B.C. Centennial in 1958, and the 50th anniversary of Penticton.

The memorial, whatever is decided, could be in honor of Mr. Ellis, the pioneer, who owned all the land the city is built on and fruit lands. Had he not sold his holdings to the Okanagan Land Co., there probably would be no city to be commemorated in 1958. I think he had to travel by trail on foot, or horseback to get into the ranch at Penticton. So I think a nice statue of him on horseback when he first arrived at the ranch might be quite in order. Give honor where honor is due.

I was a pioneer of Penticton, from 1906 to 1909 and one of the men who planted the first fruit trees at Penticton, on my 10 acres on the bench land located quite near the town.

I did enjoy the early walk in the morning to my fruit lot on the bench land. That was over 50 years ago. So you see, I am getting to be quite a chap, only 87.

How many of your readers remember Captain H. H. Stevens, who had a number of ten acre lots on the bench land, also, a lovely home out on Main street. I sold him an acre on Main street near the Methodist Church at that time. I have often wondered what became of him.

Now I will close. So get busy on that Ellis memorial, as it will soon be 1958.

JOHNSON FOR ALDERMAN

During many years service on the Council I served in every capacity including Chairman of Finance, Light and Water, Acting Mayor, also Chairman of Relief during the hungry thirties. I have an intimate knowledge of the dams, two of which were built during my terms of office. I served several years on the executive of the U.B.C.M. Represented the Okanagan Municipalities at the Mayors' Convention in Halifax. Was sent by the Council to Ottawa and managed to convince the government that Penticton was the logical place to build the airport, and came back with a cash guarantee. I have the honor of being a Freeman of the City of Penticton conferred by my fellow Aldermen for services rendered. I have quite large investments in the City and on the bench and so am vitally interested in seeing the taxpayer get value for taxes. Have spent a good part of my life in Penticton and my only desire is to serve.

Shower At Naramata For Shirley Wilson

NARAMATA — More than fifty guests attended the miscellaneous shower held Monday evening in the Naramata community hall to honor Miss Shirley Wilson whose marriage to George Smith will take place April 13 in the Summerland United Church.

Many lovely gifts were presented to the popular bride-to-be in a brightly decorated basket carried by the little Misses Connie Smith and Lorraine Ritchie. She was assisted in opening the pretty package by Mrs. Philip Salting and Mrs. Garnet Grimaldi, who will be attendants at her forthcoming marriage.

Prior to the supper hour a solo was presented by Mrs. A. L. Day with Mrs. Percy Hancock at the piano.

Shower arrangements were by Mrs. H. A. Partridge, Mrs. Walter Greenwood, Mrs. W. A. Ritchie and Mrs. J. J. Danderfer.

A BEAUTIFUL BRIDE in traditional white and her lovely attendant wearing a misty froth of pink net over crinolined taffeta are the centre of interest as they appear in the closing presentation at the Junior Hospital Auxiliary's "Fashion Fiesta" Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium. Miss Joyce Lund is modelling

Newest In Fashions And Sparkling Commentary Delight Large Audience

Feminine and flattering fashions, casual as well as formal, and the newest in men's and children's wear were displayed before a capacity audience at the Junior Hospital Auxiliary's 11th annual style parade Tuesday evening in the Penticton High school auditorium.

Additional color and interest at the very successful "Fashion Fiesta" were provided with a pleasing entertainment, and a sparkling commentary by Miss Evelyn Caldwell, the well-known Vancouver newspaper columnist, "Penny Wise." Miss Caldwell not only delighted the audience with her review of the fashions, but also gave a brief and witty sketch of an interview with Elvis Presley at Memphis, Tennessee, last year.

More than twenty models paraded in the popular event to present new spring and summer styles from eight of the city's shopping centres, Gray's Apparel, Pop's Ladies' Wear, the Hudson's Bay Store, Le Anders Dress Shop, the Fashion Centre, Gibson's Style Shop, Bryant and Hill Men's Wear Ltd., and Grant King Co., Ltd.

LEISURE HOUR FASHIONS "Leisure Hour" fashions were featured in the opening section with a trio of attractive teenagers showing style favorites in bathing suits, slacks, cottons and casual wear.

Miss Marilyn Smith's play suit and border printed skirt were pretty enough to wear in for a coke after sunning on the Okanagan beach all afternoon. An equally attractive plaid outfit featuring jacket and shorts was worn by petite Miss Marlene Prentiss, while tall, blond Miss Diane Gibson added distinction to a two-piece "leisure time" outfit with narrow tapering slacks of pinstriped topped by an Italian blouse.

Attractive Mrs. H. L. Beckett wore a full-skirted bias cut plaid cotton with brief jacket over a strapless bodice to be outstandingly smart in the "cottons" section.

tion of Fashion Fiesta. She appeared later in the parade in an evening gown of all-white in waltz length. Her only ornament, a large full-blown rose at her waistline, was accented by pink metallic sandals from the selection displayed by Earleys Shoe store.

Periwinkle embroidery against a bright, white background was a very attractive feature of the pretty cotton frock worn by dark-haired Mrs. E. H. Minns. She wore chalk white costume jewelry to complement her attire.

TRIO OF YOUNG MODELS Sweet demure frocks for party wear, and practical dresses and slacks for playtime were featured in the several outfits displayed by the show's very young models, Diane McArthur, Vicki Israel and Sharon Kincaid.

The casual theme apparent in the opening sections of the show was also displayed in the men's slacks, jackets and sportswear worn by the men models, Noel Barry, Les Trabert, Bruce Howard and Mickey Madge.

The coat-and-dress, or jacket-and-dress theme predominated in the collection shown in the travel section at the show. One, a lovely daisy-pink wool jersey dress with biege coat, was smartly worn by Mrs. Charles Blacklock. Her flower trimmed hat was from K. Bonham's shop.

Black fox fur banded the short cape worn over the slim, softly-tailored black suit shown by attractively smart Mrs. R. W. Israel. An ever-flattering white hat and accessories were chosen for this ensemble.

MUTED PLAID

A suit and tweed coat of muted plaid was displayed to advantage by vivacious Mrs. Ted Amos. Her beige top coat featured the high waist line and accented the lighter color in the softly colored plaid suit.

Lovely Miss Joyce Lunn wore a navy shantung sheath dress zipped up the centre back. A dotted top of white with empire waistline was covered with a brief navy blue fitted packet. Her hat was white to match the dress top.

Petit blue-eyed Miss Shirley Carson was charming in a delicate grey printed pure silk frock fashioned on the princess-line with molded bodice, and made more bouffant with crinolines. Her large hat and harmonizing accessories complemented the pretty ensemble.

Tall, stately, blond Miss Lynne Swanson wore a smart blue dress featuring the new low-back bodice. Her large white hat was styled of rough straw.

CHIFFON SHEATH

She appeared in the closing section of Fashion Fiesta in a beautiful chiffon sheath with shirred bodice and back panel stressing the new femininity in the spring and summer fashion-world.

Mrs. Frank Williams was charming in this closing section of the parade in an aqua embroidered nylon frock featuring a large bow at the side hip line and tiny shoulder-covering jacket.

Men's fashions displayed throughout the parade stressed the "Continental-look", a more natural shoulder line and higher buttoned jackets. Smart tweeds, flannels and the new lighter colored materials were also favored in the display.

Highlighting the evening's show was the appearance of Miss Lunn as the bride and Miss Carson as her attendant. The bride was beautiful in a ballerina frock of white antique taffeta, while her bridesmaid was charming in a misty froth of pink net over bouffant taffeta. The bridal bouquet, a gift from Monty's Flower Shop, was tossed into the audience in the traditional manner.

SEW AND SAVE

The "Sew and Save" feature, displaying garments made for the kiddies by their mothers, was accorded a very warm reception. Modelling in this section were Debbie Adams, Carol Colarstrand, Christine and Jimmy Cunningham, Jayne Delves, Leslie Finnelly, Luan and Glenis Hohenadel, Lynn and Doug Knight, Jane Leir, Susan and Billy Mosdell, Janet Slade, Robbie, Jackie and Marele Wells.

President of the Junior Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. Howard Patton, who officially opened the fashion display, invited Miss Caldwell to make the draw for raffle and door prizes at the conclusion of the parade.

Winning tickets in the raffle were held by Mrs. George Lang, blanket; G. C. F. Lawrence, towel set; Mrs. S. Robson, ham, and C. V. King dinner tickets. Door prizes went to Mrs. Fred Mason, dress, and Mrs. R. Parker, heating pad.

An entertaining, clever and amusing program was presented during intermission by Thelma Bruce, Barbara Clough, Barrie Gartrell and Marien O'Brian.

Mrs. A. H. Frazer and Mrs. James Fleming were conveners of the auxiliary's 11th annual show.

And The Battle Goes On And On And On

And the battle carries on. It will continue until April 14 when British Columbia Amateur Basketball Association president Basil Sands makes his appearance in Penticton to discuss the matter and settle the hassle with the Penticton association.

However, Penticton's decision as to whether they will stay in the Interior Senior "B" men's league will not come until sometime in October when the annual league meeting is held in one of the Valley centres.

Omegas' secretary Bert White wrote a reply to Interior Basketball Association president Bob Hall's letter published in the April 1 edition of the Herald. Following is Bert White's letter:

I have in front of me a letter from Mr. Bob Hall, president of the Interior Basketball Association, which was reproduced in Monday, April 1st's Herald under the headline: "Will Penticton enter U.S. Loop?" Some of the statements made by Mr. Hall are in need of correction and I believe I am in a position to make the necessary corrections.

The Penticton Basketball Association is not trying to deny what is in the constitution of the Interior Basketball Association. The constitution of the Interior Basketball Association does state that ejection of participants will be reported to the executive by the referees, etc. But as manager of teams for two years, I have not had this procedure followed after a player or players had been ejected. I have been in the habit of a completely different procedure being followed by the executive in leagues at the coast. I can cite occasions when a member of the Penticton Omegas was ejected for what the ejection referee considered unsportsmanlike conduct (twice this year prior to the occasion in question) and nothing further was done. This being the procedure one is accustomed to, it is the one he expects. The Penticton association feels that Bill Raptis was singled out for suspension when what he did was far less unsportsmanlike than conduct of other players which resulted in no suspension and no action on the part of the league executive. Mr. Janicki of Vernon felt that Bill Raptis should be judged on his past record and not on the incident in question. One wonders if Mr. Janicki would like to be judged on past conduct in a like incident?

The Penticton Association is glad to have Mr. Hall confirm the fact that referee reports acts of unsportsmanlike conduct and wonders whether a report has been obtained from Pat Gibb as was requested by the Penticton Basketball Association.

In the matter of a referee's clinic, the information given in Mr. Hall's letter is a strange twisting of the truth. Mr. Hall knows that Bert White arranged with Mr. Wink Wilcox for several basketball clinics to be held in Okanagan centres. These arrangements were made while Bert White was in attendance at the annual meeting of the B.C. Amateur Association as the representative of the Interior Basketball Association. On his return to the Okanagan Mr. White informed the High Schools Association and also the Interior Basketball Association that Mr. Wilcox was planning to come to the Okanagan and suggested that Mr. Jim Pantan, Recreation Director for the Okanagan organize a series of clinics and make the necessary arrangements with Mr. Wilcox. It was very frustrating to then find Penticton overlooked completely when the tour was arranged by Mr. Pantan.

Further as to the referees clinic held in the Pen-Hi gym. There were six would-be referees in attendance, and only one was a member of the Omegas basketball team. The fact that these six were in attendance attests to the fact that they were definitely interested in becoming fully qualified referees. Yet, after writing exams and receiving information, etc., they were told there would be another clinic in Kelowna the following week — but no clinic was held. Three members of the Penticton executive went to see Mr. Hall to find out what was necessary if these people were to become fully qualified referees. After some discussion, Mr. Hall wrote to Chuck Laidlaw, referee-in-chief, such letter being forwarded by yours truly. Mr. Laidlaw gave no definite information but did promise to travel south with the Kamloops Merchants to floor-test at least one of the referees. He did not do so. And so it went, people interested in becoming fully qualified referees but not knowing how to do so. The Penticton clinic was also for Kelowna and Vernon referees and yet none of these officials traveled to Penticton.

We now feel that there has been sufficient correspondence and that the time has come for action. If the Interior Basketball Association as a duly constituted organization are sincerely willing to carry out their duty to the game, the time is ripe for this body to act — one way or another — on the recommendations presented by the Penticton Amateur Basketball Association.

Safety, Skill Event Sunday

A safety check and driving skill event will be held this Sunday at Skaha lake.

Penticton's Cavalier Custom car club is holding the event which starts at 1:30 p.m.

All motorists holding valid drivers' licenses are invited to compete for several prizes donated by Penticton merchants.

Entry fee is 75 cents and forms may be received from any club member during this week.

THE BIG MOMENT wasn't far away when these three boxers, Bob Peel, Matthew Batiste and Andy Arnold would crawl through the ropes for their first bout in the Spokane Golden Gloves boxing championships. Peel of Penticton, went on to take the runner-up spot in the light heavy-weight division of the novice event. Batiste, out of the Lions' Athletic club in Oroville, lost his fight on a decision. Penticton's Arnold, drawing Gerald Gray of Montana, who sported one of the best records at the gloves event, lost his featherweight senior fight when he received a cut over the right eye. It required four stitches.

Plan Approved To Create Interest In Babe Ruth

Lin Coates, president of the local Babe Ruth league, has brought up a plan which he hopes will create parent interest in Babe Ruth baseball.

Junior Baseball Coming Back?

His suggestion was to send a Babe Ruth bulletin to all parents of boys playing ball. This bulletin, to come out every two weeks, would include the minutes of the preceding executive meeting, a note from either a player, umpire, coach or parent as to what part they play in baseball. The bulletin would also contain comments from parents, notices of help needed by the league, a lineup of the next two weeks game, present standings, top batters and pitchers.

This notice would help to bring the parents closer to Babe Ruth ball and also show them the men doing all the work are teaching their boys something and are not just glorified baby sitters.

Another suggestion was to have two parents make a collection from the spectators at each game. Two adults would be chosen at random for each game.

Conner Clarke of Keremeos was present at the meeting and informed the executive he has lined up 24 youngsters to play ball.

Looking to the future, the commission couldn't see how senior baseball could survive without a junior team to draw young players from.

The PBC hopes to finance Penticton's team through funds raised at the $10-a-plate dinner, slated for next Wednesday, April 10 at 6 p.m.

Any persons interested in junior ball are asked to attend the meeting in Summerland.

Registration This Weekend, Babe Ruth

Registration of all Babe Ruth baseball pool players and any boys interested will take place at the Babe Ruth park across from Penticton Memorial arena, Saturday, at 1:30 p.m.

Boys must be between the ages of 13 and 15 as of September 1.

The Babe Ruth league executive is looking for coaches and managers to handle each of the four teams the league will field this season.

Any persons interested, are asked to phone president Lin Coates at 3133.

Salmon Arm Has No Quarrel

Bob Hall, president of the Interior Basketball association informed the Herald yesterday that statements made in a story titled "BCABA President Basil Sands To Investigate Omegas' Hassle" were wrong.

He said, "I was not ejected from a Rutland-Teddy Bear game for using abusive language. There was a technical foul called and I said, 'don't worry Marg it was worth it.'"

He also questioned a statement that Salmon Arm was suspended from the Senior "C" men's league. He said, "there were no underhanded dealings in the suspension."

However, Denny Marshall, coach of the Salmon Arm squad, said, "we were suspended near the opening of the season because our players were not registered. However, I took the case before the Interior Basketball Association and we were reinstated. In January, five of our players who worked for the government, were transferred to a camp near Chilliwack and we were forced to fold."

Marshall added, "I have no quarrel with the league or its officers and I feel we got a square deal at the league meeting early in the season."

Bad Luck Travels With Our Boxers

Bad luck has a hand in almost everything and Tuesday night, there was no exception for Bob Peel.

Peel, boxing in the light heavy-weight division of the novice event in the Spokane Golden Gloves, threw a stiff right punch that lost him the fight and also the crown in his division.

In the ring with Gary Kuhns of Yakima YMCA club, Peel just about had his opponent out in the first minute of the first round. At 1:08, Bob's stiff right punch missed the mark and snapped his neck at the same time. He went down and referee Pete Radamaker gave the decision to Kuhns to prevent further injury to Peel.

Peel had been going great in all his fights. The first one, held Monday afternoon, was slow but Peel had the upper edge and won on a split decision.

Monday evening, he fought again, this time against John McKie of Bridgeport. The fight was a crowd pleaser with both boys giving the spectators lots of action. Peel won by a unanimous decision.

Andy McGoldrick said he thought Peel was first injured in the first fight when he took a hard punch to the back of the neck. He said it just needed that strain to snap it and take him out for good.

Bad luck also took after Andy Arnold of the Penticton club. Andy, who has had over 150 fights in his amateur career, was entered in the featherweight division of the senior event.

To start things off, Andy weighed in at 125½ pounds. He had to cut his weight down to 125 pounds because there was no allowance for travelling. (Usually, there is an allowance of two pounds for those travelling to fights.)

Trainer McGoldrick sweated Andy down to 123½ pounds to make the weight division. However, the worst was to come.

Andy drew Gerald Gray for his first fight. Gray along with his twin brother Gerald were from Brownsville Montana. Gerald fought his first match in 1950 in Montana and went on to compete in 169 others, winning 65, losing four and taking split decisions or draws on the others.

With Andy Arnold's luck, he had to draw a boy who had one of the most impressive records at the Golden Gloves event. What made it worse was that Gerald was a southpaw, thus a hard boy to hit.

The first round saw Andy lose but by a very close margin. In the second round, Arnold was even closer but he received a cut above the right eye and referee Radamaker called the fight at 1:59.

This was not the first time Arnold lost out because of a cut. In the Olympic trials, he took one from a head butt and was forced to quit.

Luck was against the Penticton club from the start. At the border, Wally Arnold and Charlie Goeckel were not allowed into the U.S. because they didn't have visas. Both are new to Canada.

Charlie and Wally will travel to Vernon Saturday for fights with that club.

Council Meeting Slated April 17

Penticton's future in the recreation field will come up for discussion April 17 before one of the largest recreation meetings ever held in the Peach city.

At this date, the Advisory council will hold their first quarterly meeting of the year and the first in the history of Penticton.

The council is made up of all sports, recreation and arts groups in the city. The central executive of the Advisory council, which is better known as the Recreation Commission, will disclose what plans they have in the recreation field for Penticton.

Many organizations have named their representatives to the council but still many others have not replied to the appeal made publicly and by letter.

The public has been invited to the meeting and with the program lined up, it should prove interesting to everybody.

Jim Pantan, recreational director for the Okanagan, will address the meeting to be held in Penticton's Memorial arena. Films illustrating what a recreation commission can do for a community will be shown.

ATTENTION

Here is the lineup for the first practices of the LPI leagues for next week.

Wings Stopped In Five Games

Bruins Tackle Habitants In Final

The surprising Boston Bruins, who refused to quit despite season long troubles which included the retirement of goalie Terry Sawchuk, square off against the high-scoring Montreal Canadiens tomorrow night in the opening game of the Stanley cup final series in Montreal.

Out-hustling the bigger and more polished Detroit Red Wings, the Bruins capped one of the biggest upsets in sports this year by defeating the Wings, 4-3, last night to gain the final round along side the Canadiens.

Montreal battled through two minutes and 11 seconds of overtime before Maurice Richard's rebound goal eliminated the over-matched New York Rangers, 1-3, to gain the final round. Thus, both Boston and Montreal made it to the final in five games.

Montreal's advance to the finals hardly surprised anyone, but it was an entirely different story for the scrappy Bruins. Picked to finish last in regular-season play, the Bruins moved in front early in the campaign and led the league through the first half. After Sawchuk quit because of a blood disease in mid-season, the club faltered until Don Simmons moved up from Springfield to take over the nets.

Coach Mil Schmidt kept maneuvering and the club finished third at the end of the regular campaign and in the process beat Detroit and Montreal seven times each. The Red Wings wound up first and Montreal was second.

Veteran Doug Mohns was the sparkplug in the Bruins' clinching victory over the Red Wings, who will be absent from the finals for the first time in four campaigns. Mohns scored one goal and assisted on two others as the Bruins kept coming from behind to gain the victory.

The Red Wings twice led, by 1-0 and 2-1, but the roof fell in the third period when the Bruins scored three straight times with Cal Gardner getting the winner at 15:16. Buddy Boone and Leo Labine tallied Boston's other goals.

For the Canadiens, Richard, the oldest player in the National Hockey League and the game's most prolific scorer, ended a hectic battle. The New Yorkers fought back from a 3-0 deficit in the third period to tie the score with Parker MacDonald, Red Sullivan and Harry Howell, who scored only three goals during the regular season, beating goalie Jacques Plante.

Joan Beliveau and Floyd Curry notched Montreal's earlier goals with Beliveau getting two of them. For Richard the winner was his 45th post-season goal, an all-time high. He also has scored 493 goals during the regular season, another all-time high.

SOME POWER USERS TO PAY THEIR BILLS EARLIER THIS MONTH

Some Penticton power users are being asked to pay their bills a little earlier this month.

City Treasurer William Cooper reports that a revision of the city's cyclical billing system has resulted in advancing the payment date for some accounts due on the 20th of each month, to the 15th.

The move is designed to level out the billing work in accordance with the increasing load in various areas.

Payment date for a number of other accounts is also being advanced by five days.

All power users will find they have a new account code this month.

Withholding my resignation — it was in my pocket — was one of the hardest decisions I have ever had to make," he said. "But as a result the city was without a quorum for only one and a half days."

has subsidized irrigation to the tune of $150,000."

J. W. Johnson volunteered to answer the question "why go pumping if there is sufficient gravity water?" He said city council had to install pumps because home-owners, advised to let taps drip to prevent freeze-up, had let them run continuously and emptied the reservoir.

Mr. Southworth said the Skaha Lake pumping plan had become an issue because it seemed to him the city was contracting for something it didn't require.

He also quoted the late Mayor Matson as being against the idea and wishing any contract held up.

Asked if there is a water problem in Penticton as acute as has been indicated, E. A. Titchmarsh said the city is chronically short of water and both gravity and pumping systems must be maintained to provide a continuous supply.

To a request for amplification of the irrigation loss, Mr. Southworth said money spent on exploration for irrigation water came from domestic water earnings.

"If the irrigation system is to get the water, it should pay the costs of finding it," he declared.

J. W. Johnson said Mr. Southworth missed the point that during the reeveship of R. J. McDougall it had been suggested that domestic water should pay half the debt from cost of the system.

A "three-pronged question" of continuity of civic government was introduced and the three members, who resigned from council to run for mayor, were asked to explain their positions.

Mrs. MacCleave and Mr. Titchmarsh both said they resigned early enough to avoid the need for two by-elections.

"I resigned right off the bat as one of the two senior members of council and I consider it regrettable that anyone has forced on the city the nuisance and expense of a second by-election," said Mr. Titchmarsh.

Picking up the gauntlet, Mr. Southworth said he had remained on the job the final week and had wound up a number of items as the sole remaining member of the finance committee and chairman of the land sales committee.

"Withholding my resignation — it was in my pocket — was one of the hardest decisions I have ever had to make," he said. "But as a result the city was without a quorum for only one and a half days."

He added that no one can presume there will be another by-election since the vacancy could be filled by acclamation. Nor could anyone assume that he "Mr. Southworth" would be a candidate for the vacancy.

That ended the debate. Acting Mayor H. M. Geddes thanked the Jaycees for their patience and interest in civic affairs and for giving the candidates an opportunity to speak.

My Last Thoughts on the Election Campaign

Last night as I walked off the auditorium platform after addressing the largest audience of the campaign I felt I had missed a most important factor.

I felt that everyone in the audience as a taxpayer was discouraged and no candidate that I heard in this campaign ever mentioned how the average man was going to have enough money to pay his taxes.

I know that every investment that I personally have is in jeopardy with earnings shrinking in value.

I do not know at this moment how the city tax situation is. If elected I will immediately investigate this phase and advise the council that, as the necessity arises, we will reduce all unnecessary expenses of all kinds, concentrate on spending our income to provide work on necessary improvements to provide more income for our own taxpayers.

As your reeve we survived the stringent '30's, with teamwork and the knowledge gained in those years we should not be discouraged.

I thank you for the privilege of serving you.

A SPECTACULAR FIRE on the West Bench Wednesday night reduced the two-year old home of Alfred H. Hunt to smouldering ruins in a matter of an hour when a pot of fat on the kitchen stove caught fire. Visible from almost every corner of the city, firemen had little chance to save anything as the mother fled with her children.

WATER SUPPLY ARGUMENTS

increase will be to the detriment of Penticton.

He suggested that council should first set a reasonable mill rate and then draw up its budget accordingly.

Declaring that too much council business is being done in committee, Mr. Johnson said he would strive to see that the public was informed on what council is doing.

A. C. Kendrick said council members cannot be experts in all fields and should thoroughly investigate the water controversy, basing their final decision on advice of engineering experts. "It's council's duty to listen to all sides, determine what is best, and then do it if the cost is reasonable."

Expressing happiness that "friends asked me to run — I never thought of it before," he promised only that he would do his best if elected.

Stuart R. Hawkins, elected by acclamation to fill the unexpired portion of the term vacated by Mr. Titchmarsh, told the audience he was proud to be a member of council but he had nothing to say as yet.

"I will do the best I can for you," he added.

P. F. Erault said he was convinced that pumping is not the answer to the city's water problems, but thought investigation had not been thorough enough yet to determine how the problems should be solved.

"It's better to spend a few thousand dollars to be sure you are right than to take the wrong road on insufficient advice," he declared.

He noted, however, that most Pacific coast centres have gravity water systems and that the two pumps on Okanagan Lake, installed to supplement the city's gravity system, are not being used to capacity and are not as big as was originally recommended. Larger pumps would be more than sufficient to supply the needs of the Skaha Lake area.

Mr. Erault said his aim, if elected to council, would not be "reduction of taxes so much as getting full value for your money." He added that he would strive for a better liaison between city council and the school board of which he is chairman.

Strong support for the Skaha Lake pumping plan was voiced by Mrs. MacCleave. She said she couldn't help but take a dim view towards building further dams when present ones are neglected. She said the pumping plan was outlined in a preliminary report from a competent engineering firm hired by council.

Mrs. MacCleave denied that council's committee meetings are "concealed business." Much preliminary work must be done by committees, she said, because if it were all done at council meetings each session would last until three or four o'clock in the morning. Committee business, however, is eventually brought to council, she added.

She said that she considered extension of Penticton's sewer system of urgent importance and thought it should be given priority over the water issue. Council must first decide whether a sewage lagoon or some other disposal system is to be used, she declared.

Expressing a strong interest in civil defence, "because of the knowledge of what has happened to our dams," Mrs. MacCleave also favored setting up a city administrator form of government "to give dynamic young blood a chance on civic government."

Charles Oliver suggested that the city doesn't need experienced engineers as much as it needs common sense. Pumping water is a costly business while water runs downhill for nothing he observed.

When asked how he would go about solving the city's water problems, he suggested sheet steel piling should be used to reinforce the present dams and this would be more permanent. He saw no shortage of water but only improper utilization of present sources and dams on Penticton and Ellis creeks.

J. D. Southworth, outlining a 5-point platform, showed the audience the report prepared for council by Associated Engineers at a cost of $4,000. He read portions of it which said that ample water for the city's needs at least until 1971 can be supplied from the gravity system on Penticton and Ellis creeks.

The report recommended that Penticton Creek, presently supplying both domestic and irrigation water, be used for irrigation only and that domestic water be obtained from Ellis creek after installation of a filtering plant.

"Our study of relative costs ... indicate that a gravity system would be cheaper in the first instance and there would be an additional saving after the 20 year amortization period at least equal to the operating costs of the alternate pumping system," the report said.

Mr. Southworth said the engineers' recommendations made no mention of pumping from Skaha Lake.

He said the supplementary pumps on Okanagan Lake were in operation only 83 days last summer. If these pumps, only five-inch, were replaced with the eight and a half inch originally recommended, "the city water supply could be boosted by a million and a half gallons per day. Thus there is really no shortage of water," he said.

"I think we've had too many engineers on council," Mr. Southworth said wryly. "The city engineer should have run for council. If he were elected council would then be saved the cost of an engineer's salary."

Mr. Southworth's five-point platform called for obtaining domestic water from creeks; combining flood control work with the solutions to the domestic water shortage; effect economies in unproductive departments; prevent unauthorized commitments of council; and plan expenditures on a long-range basis.

As an example of the fifth point, Mr. Southworth said a little foresight would have resulted in construction of a flood control dam on Boulder Creek, avoiding the $282,000 spent on Penticton Creek flood control in the past few years.

E. A. Titchmarsh, declaring that he was running because he felt a responsibility towards continuation of good government for Penticton, said he was running on his record alone without promises or solicitation of votes.

Reading from records of council minutes at meetings in December and January, he noted that Mr. Southworth had voted in favor of adopting the Skaha Lake pumping plan in principle and of engaging the Associated Engineers for engineering work on installation of a domestic water system for the Skaha Lake area.

Mr. Southworth later explained that on these occasions council was already committed to the course of action approved and a negative vote would have accomplished nothing. However, he recalled that he had voted against the project on three other occasions.

Mr. Titchmarsh said he had nothing against a gravity water system if the dams are adequately built.

"Most of the dams we have built around here don't come under that category," he added.

Agreeing that the city's domestic water system would always remain a gravity system essentially, he said pumping equipment was necessary to supplement the dams in case of drought in summer or freeze-up at the dams in winter.

As a result of the pump installation on Okanagan Lake, Penticton is one of the few B.C. centres without sprinkling restrictions, he said.

The present dams require repairs, he said, not because they were neglected as others had charged, but because of their age, wrong materials, and improper construction.

While the dams are being repaired, alternate sources of water must be found, he pointed out. Okanagan Lake is unsuitable because the shallow water above the intake causes sand to enter the pipes and one would have to go too far out to get into water deep enough. At Skaha Lake the water is more than deep enough close to shore," he said.

Mr. Titchmarsh said his chief interest as mayor would be finalization of the domestic water problem and extension of the area served by sewers.

All candidates were asked whether cost of extending water services to 162 families in the Skaha Lake area would be shared by the city as a whole or would be borne mainly by the residents concerned. The candidates agreed that costs should be shared by control. She thought the fire was out. But because there was so much smoke in the house she opened the front door.

Immediately the smoldering blanket burst alight and soon flames were reaching around the stove and up into the kitchen cupboards. In no time, the blaze was beyond control.

Mrs. Hunt telephoned first her husband and then the fire department. She then went to the bedroom where her two children, Garth, 2½, and Ian, 6½, were sleeping. She smashed the window of this room, which was on the ground level, and carried her younger son through the opening to safety.

By this time Mr. Hunt had arrived and was able to reach through the broken window and lift his other frightened son from the burning house.

Leaving the children with neighbors, he went into the basement, at ground level on the one side, rescued his dog and took a few things from a newly constructed rumpus room. But again an open door provided ventilation for hungry flames and soon fire was eating its way down the stairwell from the blazing upstairs interior.

"I decided it was best to clear out," said Mr. Hunt the next day.

Two crews of twenty firemen, who could see the house ablaze up on the bench when they wheeled out of the fire-hall, put up a losing battle with the flames. They stayed on the job for a little over two hours.

Fire chief M. H. Foreman said the next day he and his men were beaten before they started.

Mr. Hunt and his family are living, temporarily, with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Greyell.

Asked about his plans for the future, Mr. Hunt replied, he would begin as soon as possible to build a new house upon the ruins of his old one.

GIRL WINS

In presenting the decision of the judges, Bishop A. H. Sovereign of Vernon praised the three contestants but said only one, the winner, had a logical order to her talk.

He pointed out that none of the speakers used any humour. He said humor is "like ketchup which we put on our meat" to improve it.

The other judges were Mrs. T. F. McWilliams, Kelowna's 1956 Good Citizen, and Mrs. D. J. Kerr, also of Kelowna.

Mrs. W. I. Betts, on behalf of the joint group of IOOF lodges, Penticton, Oliver and Summerland, presented an application to the winner and mementos to the losers.

Last year's winner and representative of the lower Okanagan, Miss Arlene McKinley of Oliver, gave an entertaining outline of her experiences in New York and at United Nations Headquarters.

Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, of Summerland, a councillor on last year's tour, in speaking to the audience had nothing but praise for the young members under her charge.

In intervals in the program musical selections were provided by the junior band, under direction of music teacher Dave Hodge.

WINNIPEG (UP) — The general manager of the Winnipeg arena has announced that Jack Kramer and his world championship tennis troupe will appear in Winnipeg, May 13.

the city as a whole.

In another question, ex-council members were asked why a long water main was laid on Westminster avenue, where there are only three houses to be served. Mr. Titchmarsh replied that the vacant land there is being sold and subdivided and the persons in charge are contributing to the water main costs.

Mr. Southworth added that the new main is to serve industry being established there.

Another member of the audience suggested the city should do something about having the gas line installation crews clean up properly after putting in a line because they were causing too much dust.

To which a lady in the audience retorted that "big things like a natural gas line are worth a little bit of inconvenience."

Bogus Cheque Passer Gets Term In Prison

BEWARE THE CHILD!

HARTFORD, Conn., (UP) — Federal Judge J. Joseph Smith ruled in favor of a supermarket which was sued by a shopper who was hit by a shopping cart pushed by a four-year-old girl. "Failure to post signs warning of danger from children is not lack of ordinary care," he ruled.

Australia's native "bear", the koala, is a marsupial in spite of its popular description. It lives in the gum trees.

For passing a worthless $187 cheque in a city cafe, Arnold J. Henriksen was sentenced to 12 months imprisonment in Penticton police court Wednesday afternoon.

He was also convicted in Oliver on Tuesday of obtaining a car by false pretences and was sentenced to a year in prison.

The two sentences will run concurrently. Before cashing his bogus cheque, Henriksen, using an assumed name, passed himself off to a Penticton cafe owner as being a foreman for a pipeline company.

To make his story more convincing, he ordered, over a period of some weeks, and charged numerous lunches which he claimed were for his crew.

Then he asked the cafe owner to cash a company cheque for $187. The owner cashed the cheque.

In Oliver, Henriksen played the same role well enough to obtain with another phoney cheque, a car valued at $2,300. He drove this car for three weeks before being charged for his misdeeds.

IN POLICE COURT

Andrew L. Plett, Penticton, was convicted of driving while under suspension of licence in police court Wednesday.

He was fined $50 and three dollars costs by Magistrate H. J. Jennings.

Found guilty of theft from an automobile, Stephen Heisie, no fixed address, was sentenced on Tuesday to two months' imprisonment.

He was convicted of stealing a flashlight, a screwdriver and a wrench.

Night School Art Classes Conclude

SUMMERLAND — The night school classes in art have concluded for this season.

On Tuesday evening the group met at the home of Mrs. A. K. Macleod, who instructed. She was given a bowl of spring flowers in appreciation of her teaching.

From now on members of the Summerland Art Club, not all of whom were attending the night school classes, will meet once a week in the home of members, or for painting expeditions.

The fourth annual exhibition of paintings is planned for early in June.

Cork, Portugal's chief export, is the dead oak bark of an evergreen oak and may be removed periodically without killing the tree. Portuguese law permits the stripping of a tree once every nine years.

AH! SPRING! It probably means vanishing fuel bills and the annual spring house cleaning to most of us, but to the children it's the rebirth of carefree fun outdoors. Penny Barber, facing camera, and friend Jaclyn Hayes didn't think they were rushing the season as they took to the swings in Kiwanis Park, Edmonton avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Who's Who In Civic By-Election

Seven persons are running for election to Penticton's local government Saturday. Three candidates — P. F. Erout, Albert Kendrick and J. W. Johnson — are vying for part of a two-year term aldermanic vacancy on council. The other four — E. A. Titchmarsh, Charlie Oliver, Elsie MacCleave and J. D. Southworth — are contesting the mayoralty post left vacant by the death of Oscar Matson.

A close look at each of the seven candidates is presented in the following biographical sketches.

J. D. SOUTHWORTH

James Douglas Southworth, last to file papers as mayoralty candidate, was born in Kewatin, Ont., 53 years ago as one of a family of seven.

Moving with the family to Revelstoke around 1910, Mr. Southworth entered the school teaching profession. He taught school at Revelstoke and Golden for some 13 years, after which he went into the investment-trust field. Moving to Trail in 1935, he became divisional manager for a national investment firm setting up his own business as investment-trust specialist a few years later. He came to Penticton seven years ago.

Shortly before World War II he was one of 16 men across Canada who sat on a board advising the federal government on national credit restrictions.

During the war he served with the Royal Canadian Air Force first as air priority control officer for B.C., Alberta, and the Yukon, and then as administration officer in charge of the largest RCAF establishment in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Southworth has also been active in boy scout work since 1921 after his own "scouting" days as a youth. He was district scout commissioner at Penticton for five years and is now a member of the Penticton district scout council.

Other civic activities include membership in the Penticton Rotary club, the local Borstal committee, and on the executive of the Penticton board of trade.

In church work, Mr. Southworth is rector's warden and lay reader at St. Saviour's Anglican church and a member of the Kootenay diocesan synod.

Mr. Southworth is married and has a daughter.

He was elected to Penticton city council in December, 1955, resigning Monday night to run for mayor.

CHARLES OLIVER

Charles E. Oliver, a native British Columbian and a resident of Penticton for the past 35 years, is trying for a comeback in civic politics with his bid for the mayoralty.

Born in New Westminster, 1892, Mr. Oliver graduated from the University of Toronto with a degree in chemical engineering. He was employed with the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Ltd. at Trail for three years. He came to Penticton in 1922.

A charter member of the B.C. Professional Engineers' association, joining in 1920, Mr. Oliver is a fruit rancher and chemical spray manufacturer operating plants at Penticton and Lethbridge.

During World War I he served with the munitions board of the department of national defence at Arnprior, Ont.; at a gunpowder manufacturing plant at New Jersey, U.S.A.; at a munitions plant at Quebec; being later transferred to the balloon department of the RCAF.

In Penticton Mr. Oliver has been engaged in a wide range of civic and community activities. He was yeave of the Penticton district for four consecutive terms — 1932-36 inclusive. During this period, Mr. Oliver was responsible for locating the Elila Creek dam number four, securing its construction without a money hlyaw.

He is also a member of the Penticton board of trade and has been a Rotarian for the past 20 years.

Mr. Oliver is married and has two sons.

ELSIE MACCLEAVE

Mrs. Elsie M. MacCleave, one of the three Penticton aldermen who have resigned their seats in order to run for the mayor's post, was born in Toronto, Ont., and brought up in the Kootenay region of the Yukon.

She has lived in Penticton since the end of World War II as well as during 1936-37.

Educated in Canada, England and Germany, Mrs. MacCleave has had extensive business experience in the health and welfare field. She was in charge of the British Benevolent society office at Los Angeles and also served as medical worker at Vancouver General hospital.

During World War II she was in Naval Intelligence of the Canadian Coastal Censorship for German naval prisoners of war, returning to Penticton after the war to manage the family orchard sold last year. She was also in charge of the Penticton Tourist bureau.

Her previous two years' residence here was while her husband was Penticton city engineer. Mr. MacCleave, who served with the Canadian Army, 63rd Rifles during World War II and had the rank of major, died in 1941.

Village Foreman Who Resigned Returns To Job

OSYOOS — The difficult problem of finding someone to fill the vacant post of village works department foreman, was solved at the special meeting of village council Tuesday when Mads Jensen agreed to return to the job from which he had resigned at the beginning of March.

New trees will be planted along Main street in places where trees have died or been cut down, it was decided at the meeting.

These trees will be planted in steel collars — to be cut from barrels — to restrain the roots from forcing the pavement to heave. They will be protected by a bylaw imposing a $500 fine upon anyone found damaging the trees.

A committee was set up, under John Wendland, public works department councillor, to direct completion of the ball-park.

YOUR SCHOOL AND YOU

Art In The School Program

By MISS JEAN NORRIS
Grade One Teacher Carmel School

"Why don't you teach my Billy to draw? Why when I was at school I drew cubes, balls and pyramids. I shaded apples. I painted acres of washes. I was taught the proportions of the human body — hands halfway between hip and knee, eyes and ears halfway down the egg-shaped head. I made railway tracks and telephone poles disappear into the distance. My 6x9 picture was put on the wall with forty other identical pictures. I got an 'A' if I made something that looked like something. Now-a-days there doesn't seem to be any course or standard."

"You can leave art out of the school program as far as I am concerned. It's just a frill. My Jack gets a poor mark in art but I tell him, 'That's alright, we can't all be artists.'"

These remarks I hear from Mrs. Black, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. White and Mrs. Green. Naturally these questions and criticisms arise for the philosophy of art education has changed greatly in the last generation. We no longer teach proportion, perspective, line, color and form directly to elementary school children. Because we do not aim to make artists, we do not judge artistic results but rather judge effort and thought behind the results. We encourage individuality. We ask each child to think.

The adult may not recognize the young child's picture as that of a house or cow or man but that does not mean the picture lacks merit. At first the child is drawing to crystallize his thoughts about himself and his world and, as with his speech, it is "me," "I," "my," "mine". Later he will have something to tell others through his picture-making.

A young child will feel the protection of his home so he will make the roof all-important. He may make a door and window to his shelter. As he grows older he will think of the warmth and a chimney and smoke. Later he will think of the warmth and much later he may make a side as well as an end-view of his house. The little boy or girl thinks the sun should be in the sky if it isn't. So he makes it there in his picture and gives it a smiling face because he and the sun are on friendly terms.

People have arms, legs and heads to little children — no other parts. The arms are to comfort or chastise. The legs stretch away up to join the grown-up's head to the ground. The refinement of hands and feet, neck and body, also features, will be added as the child notices them and attaches importance to them.

Children express their emotions through their picture-making. This was brought home to me one evening open-house when a visitor picked out my three problem-children simply by looking at the work of the class. This particular visitor had no young children and no knowledge of my group. She was simply interested in children and art in general. She said, "there's a mixed-up child" and "he has troubles" and "she needs understanding."

enough the frustration was plain to see in black and brown scribbles. I kept special watch and soon noticed that the calm of ordered school-room life was having its effect on the children and their art. The ugly colors were being exchanged for blues, reds, greens and yellows. The straight lines had become rounded and the pictures now had form. The children had made the adjustment to school safely. If I had not allowed the pent-up emotions to come out with crayons and paint they would certainly have found some other way — tantrums and general anti-social behaviour.

Perhaps now you will understand why we no longer ask children to color within the lines of a teacher-made picture, why we do give them large sheets of paper and why we say, "Draw with your crayon. Make it big". Yes, we help them to let go and let loose with half inch or inch paint brushes and salad bottles of paint or fingers and a sloppy, colored, paste mixture.

We go on the assumption that "art" should be a part of everyone's experience, not the prerogative of a talented few. We also remember that "What art can do for the child is of far greater significance than what the child can do for art."

Practical Hints On Laying Tile

Here are seven suggestions for laying a new tile floor:

1. Needed materials: Notched trowel, tile knife, chalk and chalk string for measuring, awl and a tape measure or rule. For wood underflooring floors use 15-lb. asphalt felt paper, linoleum paste and clay emulsion cement. Concrete underfloors require only clay emulsion cement.
2. Lift molding from around edge of floor so tile can be laid flush to the wall. Remove old floor covering, paint, wax and foreign matter.
3. If the wood underfloor is a bit warped, install over the floor quarter inch plywood nailed every 6 inches throughout. Cracks and holes should be filled with filler or wood putty.
4. Lay felt paper at right angles to the wood boards. After fitting felt strips, pull one side back and spread linoleum paste on floor in thin, even coat, press felt paper down firmly and then do other half. Repeat this operation until felt paper is down securely in all parts of room.
5. Get the exact centre of the room by marking the middle of one wall and then the other repeating the procedure with the other two walls. By connecting these points with chalk-covered string and then snapping the string, an accurate guide line is imprinted on the felt.
6. To get the border, start from the centre and dry-lay on one line of tiles in each direction in order to see how much room is needed.
7. Actual tile laying is the next step. Starting at the mid-point of the guide line, spread clay emulsion cement over an area just large enough for comfortable reaching. Lay each tile firmly against those already laid and press down with a minimum of "sliding".

Ceilings Go On Easily If Edges Are Backed

Paneling ceilings of a roughed-in attic room or a new room in the basement is not difficult with plywood. Main point to keep in mind when framing the room is to provide backing for all edges of the panels.

Common practice is to attach the fir plywood panels directly to the joists spaced 16 inches on center with 2x3 or 2x4 blocking provided at all panel edges. The method of placing blocking at the perimeter of the room is illustrated above.

USE STRAPPING

It generally is not a simple matter to nail the blocking between the joists and flush with them. Most amateur carpenters doing the job for themselves find it more convenient to nail 1x2 inch strapping across the joists in either case care should be taken to attach the blocking or the strapping at intervals of four feet on center to take edges of two panels. It is best to provide blocking or strapping at centers at the wall.

When it comes to actually applying the panels, the best procedure is to put ceiling panels on first. A T-bar of 1x2 inch lumber with handle slightly longer than the distance from ceiling to floor and a cross piece to hold the panel is a convenient aid here. The T-bar can be pressed into place to hold the panel against the joists while it is being nailed.

CENTRE FIRST

When applying ceiling panels, always start the first panels at the centre line of the room and work towards the walls. In this way panels will come out with a uniform pattern at the perimeter. Use as small nails as are convenient to work with.

It is usually best to bevel face edges of the panels to emphasize the points rather than to attempt to gain perfectly flush butt joint. Gattens over the joints can also be effective. For convenient handling it is often wise to cut the 4x8 foot fir plywood panels into 4x4 foot squares. This can provide a more interesting panel pattern.

A Hedge Will Build Itself

Hedges have been called fences that build themselves. They can be used as screens for privacy and for windbreaks.

Masses of shrubbery can be used north and west to trap snow and reduce snow shovelling work. Hardy hedges can be formed with privet, common barberry, forsythia, weigela, bayberry and small viburnums. Rugged evergreens often are used for snow fences along highways — Canadian hemlock, Austrian pine and Norway spruce. These call for careful landscape planning, however, since they eventually grow enough to block summer breezes.

HERE'S HOW ... MAKE A MAGAZINE WALL RACK

A wall rack is a handy and decorative way to keep and display magazines.

The project is made of 1 by 3 and 1 by 6-inch lumber. The sides, made of 1 by 3's, are 40 inches long. Round the top front edge as shown. The shelves, also made of 1 by 3-inch lumber, are 34 1/2 inches long. Use 1/2 by 1-inch strips to keep the magazines upright. If the 1/2 by 1-inch strips are not available, use finished lath or rip them from lumber 1 inch thick. The back is a piece of 1/4-inch hardwood plywood.

Mark the location of the shelves on the sides. Assemble the project. Use glue and 6-penny finishing nails. Attach the back using glue and No. 16 brads 1/2 inches long. Use glue and 4-penny finishing nails to attach the 1-inch strips.

Round all sharp edges. Set all nails and fill the holes with wood putty.

To hang the rack, attach through the wall to the studs. Use 1 1/2-inch screws through the plywood back.

Landscaping Must Be Well Planned Ahead

Good landscaping of the home grounds starts with a good plan. The simplest way for most people is to have a local landscape nurseryman lay out a very simple planting design. Then all the home owned has to do is order the plants recommended and have them set on the ground in their proper locations where he can plant them himself according to directions.

To help you in deciding, there are several things your landscaping should accomplish:

1. You should have a centre of interest.
2. You want to create a beautiful picture both outside and from within the house as you look out.
3. House and sky and earth should be tied together in a way to give pleasure to everyone.

Other things your landscaping should provide is privacy, beautiful flowers and foliage all year around, as well as a certain amount of home fruit.

Groupings of plants often add to the attractiveness of the picture as a whole. If you have a one-storey house, low-growing trees and shrubs are preferable.

Your centre of interest may be a beautiful tree. Do not place it in the centre of the lawn, which usually is better left open to grass.

Along the street, you may have groupings of trees or tall shrubs at the corners of the property. They may be tied together with low-growing plants, or a hedge. Lower growing shrubs will soften an abrupt change from lawn to tree, if planted around the tree.

Don't overplant. Allow for the growth of trees and shrubs. Do not plant them too thickly unless you wish immediate effect and intend to thin them out in a few years. Planting in gentle curves is better than in straight lines.

In relation to the foundation planting, you desire first to frame the home. A low tree, surrounded by a grouping of shrubs often is attractive at each corner, tied together by low flowering plants at the base of the house.

Flowering shrubs have the added advantage of supplying cut flowers for the home. Roses and similar plants not only blend well but serve that purpose.

Who's Who In Civic By-Election

the term left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Elsie MacCleave.

Mr. Johnson was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1885, coming to Canada in 1911.

Holder of an honor certificate in electrical engineering, he gained employment with the Canadian Pacific Railway at Calgary. He came to Penticton in 1916 where he worked in the Kettle Valley shops as a machinist.

He was elected to Penticton municipal council in 1931, serving a total of 17 years between this date and 1949 inclusive. He also served on the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

During his council service he was among those who arranged for the stern-wheeler "S.S. Scaurus" to be permanently docked at Penticton on her retirement. He was also a council delegate to Ottawa for establishment of the airport at Penticton.

His contributions to community life and government earned him the honor of "Freeman of the City."

Mr. Johnson was one of the founders of the Penticton Trading Co., a co-operative store, in 1919, and is its president.

He is also a member of the Penticton board of trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have two children.

ALBERT KENDRICK

Albert Kendrick, industrial arts teacher at Penticton high school for the past ten and a half years, is making his first try for a seat on civic government.

He is one of three candidates running for election to the remainder of the term vacated by Mrs. Elsie MacCleave.

A graduate of Vancouver Normal school, Mr. Kendrick was born in Vancouver, beginning his teaching career at Newgate in the East Kootenay 25 years ago.

Teaching later at Michel in the East Kootenay and Wells in the Cariboo, he came to Penticton from Port Alberni.

Mr. Kendrick is presently taking a post-graduate course from Bellingham Teachers' College for his Master of Education degree.

He already holds a B.A. in industrial arts and a first-class teaching certificate from the Vancouver Normal school. He also has a technical certificate from the B.C. department of education.

Community-wise, Mr. Kendrick is on the executive of the Canadian club and the Glenbury Figure Skating club, both in Penticton.

He is married and has a daughter.

P. F. ERAUT

P. F. Eraut, retired canning plant manager, now in his fourth consecutive year as chairman of the Penticton school board, has entered the city's civic election race because he believes that a closer liaison between city and school board is desirable.

He is one of three candidates for the aldermanic seat at stake in Saturday's election.

Born in Souris, Man., in 1892, he has lived in Penticton and district for the past 50 years, attending schools in Souris, Winnipeg and Penticton.

During the first world war, Mr. Eraut served in France with the 16th Canadian Scottish Infantry regiment.

In 1924 he went to Oliver, building a canning plant which was purchased by Canadian Canners. Mr. Eraut stayed on as manager. There Mr. Eraut served on the board of school trustees, returning to Penticton in 1935.

He was elected to the Penticton school board in 1952 and was named chairman a year later.

He has also served on the executive of the Children's Aid Society and the St. John Ambulance association. He is a past president of the Penticton Board of Trade and Branch 40, Canadian Legion, and is a member of the zoning commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Eraut have three children.

E. A. TITCHMARSH

Edward A. Titchmarsh, a Penticton alderman for the past seven years, now resigned from council to run for mayor, was born in England in 1896 and has lived in Penticton for the past 35 years.

Partially trained as a mechanical engineer in England, Mr. Titchmarsh served with the Royal Engineers in France during World War I, transferring to the Imperial Army in 1915. After seven years he came to Canada in 1922 choosing Penticton for his new home.

Here Mr. Titchmarsh, a fruit grower, has been active in the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association. He is president of the B.C. Fruit Growers Mutual Hail Insurance Co., president of the Fruit Growers Mutual Insurance Co., and vice-president of the Penticton Co-operative Growers.

He is also a former executive member of the Board of Trade and a member of Branch 40, Canadian Legion.

First elected to city council in Dec., 1949, he was re-elected for the fourth consecutive time at the Dec. 1955 elections.

As alderman, Mr. Titchmarsh was chairman of the Finance committee for six years.

He is married and has a daughter teaching at Osoyoos.

Audiences Acclaim Two Presentations

One of the finest performances of "H.M.S. Pinafore" ever presented in Penticton delighted audiences here last week.

In addition, the Summerland Singers and Players' club which presented the performances, showed they are more than capable of other and perhaps more serious works. Kurt Wall's dramatic "Down in the Valley" was the media chosen for this year's serious side. It is doubtful if professionals could have put more feeling, conveyed more emotion in 30 minutes of musical drama.

The voices selected for the title roles in "Down in the Valley" were rich, clear and full, but devoid of the heavy vocalizing that is necessary in classic Italian or German opera singing. As it was, the soloists were ideal for the parts portrayed.

Sharply precise timing as well as excellent singing made "Pinafore" a performance to remember. There were no weak spots in the cast, and likewise no voices reaching above the others.

There was another notable addition to this year's performance. This was the inclusion of a large number of young people in the orchestra. Most of them were drawn from either senior school grades, with a peppering of senior performers among them. These performers may be young according to the calendar, but they performed like veterans.

And permeating the entire performance, drawing from singers and musicians alike a standard they may not have thought themselves capable of, was Glen Morley, the director of this year's production. While singers and musicians earned high praise, each one of them can attribute a goodly share of it to the evident patient hours of work, instruction and leadership provided by the director in an effort well worth repeating.

NEWARK, N.J. (UP) — Mrs. Ruth Lofton was wounded in the right hand when a cartridge her five-year-old daughter placed in a hot pan on the kitchen stove exploded. She told police the child probably found the cartridge in the street.

Naramata

Mrs. Ernest Sammet was hostess to members of the Friendship Circle of the Women's Federation of the Naramata United Church at their April meeting Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. S. Dieken was in the chair. Business discussions centred around plans for assisting with the federation tea to be held April 10 in conjunction with a display of student handicraft at the Leadership Training School. This tea, open to friends of the church and school, is held each year just prior to the close of the school term at the L.T.S.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey arrived home Tuesday after spending the past six weeks visiting with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Chambers, and daughter at Long Beach California. En route home they stopped over at Vancouver to visit briefly with their other daughter, Mrs. Cliff Ingram, Mr. Ingram and family at Vancouver.

The cast for Henrik Ibsen's four-act drama "Hedda Gabler" to be produced by the Naramata Players this evening in the Penticton High School auditorium under the sponsorship of the Penticton Jaycees will be honored at a reception following the performance. The sponsoring group and the Naramata drama club will be co-hosts for the occasion.

H. A. Mitchell arrived home Saturday after being a patient in Shaughnessy Military Hospital since the middle of January.

Guests in Naramata last week with Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Hardman while here to attend the funeral of the latter's late father, Joseph Parent of Penticton, were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parent and son from Ladleche, Saskatchewan; Mr. and Mrs. O. Salvail and two sons of Haney, and Arley Foley of Seattle.

The Evening Circle of the Naramata United Church Women's Federation will meet on Tuesday, April 9, and not as previously scheduled for Monday evening. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Partridge. President Mrs. A. L. Day wishes to remind members of the home baking to be sold to augment the talent fund; the ladies and plants for exchange among members and the Easter thank-offering envelopes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. M. Forbes and Annabelle returned to Naramata during the weekend after accompanying their son, Mackenzie Forbes of Edmonton, on a two-weeks' motor trip to San Francisco.

The chemical industry in 1956 celebrated the 100th anniversary of the discovery of mauve, the first synthetic dye, by a young British chemist, William Henry Perkin.

Board Meets Richter On Road Project

Penticton Board of Trade is continuing to investigate the possibility of having a new road constructed along the east side of Skaha Lake as an alternative route to Penticton from the south.

Executive members of the board discussed the matter at a meeting with Frank Richter, MLA for Similkameen, Wednesday.

Board of Trade president George Lang reported attempts are now being made to arrange a meeting with Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.
